Praise for WINNEBAGO MAN:

“One of the funniest documentaries ever made!”— Michael Moore

“An intriguing meditation on character, celebrity, and the filmmaking process itself.” — The New Yorker

“Prepare to laugh hard!” — San Francisco Chronicle

*“Holy sh*t, is this a fking funny documentary!”* — Roger Ebert

Film Synopsis: WINNEBAGO MAN focuses on the most famous man you’ve never heard of: Jack Rebney, a former RV salesman whose hilarious, foul-mouthed outbursts circulated underground on VHS tapes in the 1990s before turning into a full-blown Internet phenomenon now seen by more than 20 million people worldwide. In the course of the film, Steinbauer goes in search of Rebney — and finds him living alone on a mountain top, unaware of his fame. A laugh-out-loud look at viral culture, WINNEBAGO MAN is also an unexpectedly poignant tale of one man’s response to unintended celebrity.
